+ EXCEL IN A PANDEMIC
+ 2020 ANA ENTERPRISE LEADERSHIP
2020 began as a worldwide celebration of nurses for their accomplishments and contributions throughout history. By March, however, the COVID-19 pandemic arrived, and nurses from coast to coast and beyond faced the greatest public health crisis in modern times, giving new meaning and urgency to the “Year of the Nurse and Midwife.”

In recognition of nurses’ compassionate care, determination, and commitment to excellence, even under unprecedented circumstances, the ANA Enterprise refocused all efforts to advocate for and support nurses on the front lines in 2020 and as we extended the Year of the Nurse into 2021. ANA for the first time also expanded the traditional Nurses Week to Nurses Month to further highlight and honor nurses’ indispensable roles.
“We are rethinking our roles as nurses after all we have experienced during COVID-19. The respect we gained during the pandemic has empowered us. Now we must build on this so that the value of nursing is better understood and remembered when the pandemic fades.”

LORESSA COLE, DNP, MBA, RN, NEA-BC, FACHE
CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER, ANA ENTERPRISE

A YEAR OF CHALLENGES, A LIFETIME OF STORIES

As COVID-19 patients filled hospital beds, nurses shared more than a thousand stories and photos as part of ANA Enterprise’s “A Year of Stories” series. Their stories of courage, empathy, teamwork, and dedication gave us intimate and personal accounts of the pandemic not found anywhere else.

We compiled some of these accounts in the chapter On the Front Lines of our interactive digital storybook, To Be a Nurse.
We envision a healthy world through the power of nursing. During a tumultuous year characterized by the coronavirus pandemic and racial tensions, we innovated to meet the moment, acting alongside and on behalf of nurses everywhere, while maintaining the public trust that guides all our efforts. This enabled the ANA Enterprise — the American Nurses Association (ANA), the American Nurses Credentialing Center (ANCC), and the American Nurses Foundation (the Foundation) — to achieve our goals and meet our mission to lead the profession to shape the future of nursing and health care.

CERTIFICATION

The ANCC Certification team quickly pivoted to making the necessary changes driven by the pandemic. We offered live remote proctoring for all exams as test centers remained closed, and our call centers remained offline, even as our operators transitioned to a remote setup. We extended expiration dates for renewals, and we offered a financial hardship application for those who needed it. Graduating APRN students were able to complete their exams and enter the workforce during a time of critical need for competent providers.

ANCC PATHWAY TO EXCELLENCE®

In ANCC Pathway to Excellence®, we consider positive practice environments as the “other PPE.” This PPE is just as essential as personal protective equipment in not only safeguarding the well-being of nurses but also making them more resilient partners. Consequently, in 2020 we introduced a new workshop for nurses, Writing to the Standards. We also launched the Pathway Nurse of the Year Award and made enhancements to the Pathway Learning Community to include mentoring tools, among other additions.

ANCC NURSING CONTINUING PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT ACCREDITATION PROGRAM

The ANCC Nursing Continuing Professional Development Accreditation Program team captured how to move from a live environment to virtual learning experience and leverage learning in real-time by creating the NCPD Guide for Leading Learning in Real-Time, available free to all ANCC-accredited providers.

ANCC MAGNET RECOGNITION PROGRAM®

As the pandemic developed, it was quickly evident that all ANCC Magnet Recognition Program® site visits needed to be completed virtually in 2020. By early spring, we had implemented processes and trained all appraisers. By December, more than 100 site visits had been conducted. 2020 celebrated 129 Magnet®-recognized organizations — 46 new and 83 redesignating.

THE MARCH TO BETTER CARE

The ANA Enterprise, through its initiatives and relationships, supports a safer work environment, better patient outcomes, and satisfied staff.
APRN INITIATIVES

In 2020, ANCC launched APRN Initiatives to meet the special professional needs of APRNs. This effort creates a focus across the ANA Enterprise on providing practice, policy and regulation resources for APRNs and opportunities to engage with and enhance the visibility of APRNs.

AMANDA BUECHEL, BSN, RN, CCRN, ILLINOIS

“Because a family member couldn’t be there, you needed to be that person. Sometimes I would just sit there for hours, sweating under the PPE.”

SHERAN OKE, DIRECTOR OF NURSING, MIDWIFERY, AND PATIENT SERVICES, NORTHAMPTON HOSPITAL, UNITED KINGDOM

“Like everybody in the world we’ve had a rough time over the course of the last 18 months with the pandemic and looking after each other and looking after our patients so that they get the best possible care. But I have to say Pathway is our recovery. It’s the way in which we’re coming out as nurses and midwives — stronger and better and getting back on our Pathway journey together.”

In April, the ANA Enterprise deployed the COVID-19 Resource Center, providing nurses with the latest evidence-based information and tools to practice safely and effectively, consider ethical issues related to COVID-19 care, understand coronavirus vaccines, and more. The Enterprise continues to update this valuable content as knowledge about and circumstances involving the pandemic evolve.

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE RESOURCE CENTER

- ANA’s COVID-19 Video Education Series
- COVID-19 Clinical Information & FAQ
- ANA’s COVID-19 Self-Care Package for Nurses

As the pandemic intensified, by March 20 the American Nurses Foundation and ANA launched a series of surveys of nurses to inform decisions about how to best support them during the pandemic.

More than 105,000 submissions were collected for eight surveys throughout 2020, created with the assistance of the ANCC Institute for Credentialing Research and Quality Management, on topics including nurses’ general concerns, mental health and wellness, access to PPE, innovations, financial strain, and knowledge and attitudes about COVID-19 vaccines.

The series continues in 2021 to assess changes in perceptions and identify new challenges as the pandemic prevails.
ANA realized quickly the strain COVID-19 care placed on nurses nationwide and, in collaboration with the American Nurses Foundation and partners, deployed resources to support their mental and physical health.

- The Well-Being Initiative
- Healthy Nurse, Healthy Nation™
- Nurse Suicide Prevention & Resilience

THE POWER OF COLLECTIVE EFFORT

To amplify public health messages and support nurses during the pandemic, ANA teamed with other health care associations to create public service announcements and to ensure that the key needs of nurses were heard, understood, and respected.

The pandemic placed unprecedented demands on nurses. ANA responded with seminal guidance.

CRISIS STANDARDS OF CARE

ANA issued guidance on Crisis Standards of Care for the COVID-19 Pandemic. During the pandemic, nurses have practiced in environments demanding a balance between time-limited crisis standards of care and longstanding professional standards of care. This guidance applies to decisions about care made during such extreme circumstances.

COVID-19: EVIDENCE AS A BASIS FOR DECISIONS

Developed by the ANA Center for Ethics and Human Rights, this serves as a guide for establishing ethical practice.

GUIDING PRINCIPLES FOR NURSES AND THE COVID-19 VACCINES

ANA created this document with key principles for nurses and other health care professionals to consider about immunization against COVID-19.
The pandemic and the murder of George Floyd at a police officer’s knee directed a harsh spotlight on the corrosive effects of the nation’s long history of racial injustice and health disparities. ANA, joining with like-minded organizations, raised its voice and pledged substantive actions to address these issues.

“COVID-19 is not the only ‘pandemic’ Americans are facing today. Racism is a longstanding public health crisis that impacts mental, spiritual, and physical health. COVID-19 has exacerbated this crisis and added to the stress in Black and other communities of color, which are experiencing higher rates of infection and deaths.”

ANA President Ernest J. Grant, PhD, RN, FAAN

EFFECTING CHANGE FOR RACIAL AND ETHNIC MINORITIES

ANA President Condemns Racism, Brutality, and Senseless Violence Against Black Communities

June 2020

“As a black man and registered nurse, I am appalled by senseless acts of violence, injustice, and systemic racism and discrimination ... the Code of Ethics obligates nurses to be allies and to advocate and speak up against racism, discrimination, and injustice. This is non-negotiable.”

ANA and the American Academy of Nursing Call to Address Racism and Health Equity in Communities of Color

MINORITY FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM AT ANA

In 2020, ANA continued its commitment to developing minority leaders in mental health through the Minority Fellowship Program (MFP) at ANA, sponsored by the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration. MFP supports nurses from underrepresented ethnic groups in advancing their post-baccalaureate education, enabling them to assume leadership roles in clinical services and conduct evidence-based research to improve care.

Mental Health Trailblazers — Psychiatric Nurses Speak Up! is MFP at ANA’s podcast featuring the groundbreaking journeys of psychiatric and mental health nurses in their quest to meet the urgent and unmet needs of racial-ethnic minority communities in America.

INSIGHTS ON INNOVATION

Nursing practice reflects a constant dialogue between the here and now of patient care and the possibility of better tools, outcomes, and systems of care. The ANA Enterprise supported nurses’ creativity and reimagining of their practice and practice environment.
The American Nurses Foundation’s Reimagining Nursing Initiative kicked off in January 2020 with an innovation summit. This gathering of nurses, health care and technology thought leaders established a vision and set goals for this ambitious project, which seeks to improve health care access and outcomes for all Americans by transforming nursing practice.

The COVID-19 pandemic halted traditional in-person meetings and events, but the ANA Enterprise quickly pivoted to provide governance for the association virtually and offer the same timely and relevant content its constituencies expect, in an online format.

MEMBERSHIP ASSEMBLY

More than 400 nurses and advocates consisting of constituent and state nurses associations and individual member division representatives, organizational affiliates and the ANA Board of Directors gathered virtually on June 19 for ANA’s yearly Membership Assembly. In this unprecedented online format, attendees conducted the association’s business, elected officers, and discussed crucial issues of the nursing profession.

On the heels of George Floyd’s murder, prior to convening, the Assembly adopted the Resolution on Racial Justice for Communities of Color.

TRI-COUNCIL FOR NURSING COVID-19 VIRTUAL SUMMIT

120 leaders in nursing and health care education, practice, and policy—including ANA leaders and Board of Directors members—gathered in December as part of a milestone summit to assess the effects of the pandemic on nursing. This online convocation, funded by the American Nurses Foundation, identified critical lessons learned and brainstormed opportunities for transforming nursing and health care now and in the future.

ANCC VIRTUAL SUMMIT™

Nurses remained committed to excellence in patient care despite the upheaval of the pandemic. This tenet resonated throughout the ANCC Virtual Summit™, October 7-8. Enthusiastic attendees learned from subject matter experts, connected with colleagues and exhibitors, participated in special events, and enjoyed a robust live event in a new format.

In October, the U.S. Department of Labor recognized the ANCC Practice Transition Accreditation Program® as a Standards Recognition Entity. ANCC PTAP was among an inaugural cohort of only 18 organizations so recognized to bolster high-quality Industry-Recognized Apprenticeship Programs (IRAP)—new industry-driven and customizable apprenticeships that provide individuals with opportunities to obtain relevant workplace knowledge and progressively advance skills.

CHAMPLAIN VALLEY PHYSICIAN HOSPITAL RECEIVED IRAP RECOGNITION THROUGH ANCC PTAP

“The IRAP recognition allowed our organization to apply for and receive grant funding to expand opportunities for our new graduate nurses as they transition to practice at the bedside. The programs and supplemental education this grant funded will be implemented to improve the graduate nurses’ confidence and competence. This would not have been possible without the IRAP designation.”
